

Undergraduate Orientation Day – Caulfield

Wednesday 25 February 2010

University life is an exciting and demanding academic and social experience. The Business and Economics Orientation program will help you to adjust to tertiary study, settle into university life and meet students with whom you will study.

During the orientation program, you will:

1. be introduced to the University and the campus
2. learn about the expectations and requirements of your course
3. participate in activities designed to help you to develop effective study approaches and make the most of your time at Monash.
