Q. How many units do I need left to be eligible to transfer?
A. All Faculty of Business and Economics degrees require students to have a minimum of eight units (48 credit points) remaining to complete following a course transfer. Students will not be considered for a course transfer if they have already completed more than two-thirds of their current course i.e.: (16 units for the single degree, and 24 units for the double degree).

NB: Not all units will necessarily be credited, and this will be taken into account when your application is being assessed. Credits granted will depend on the degree that you are transferring into and the major/s selected.

Q. What are the requirements for a successful course transfer?
A. To be eligible to course transfer, students must:

   o Meet the mathematical requirement
   o Have a satisfactory academic record
   o Have not completed more than two-thirds of their current degree
   o Must have completed at least two units (12 credit points) in their current degree

Eligibility to course transfer is also subject to places/capacity and availability.

Q. What is the minimum course average I need to be considered for transfer?
